R. No. [1844] U.H.O

Dated [10/10/19]

CIRCULAR

It has been noticed that a large number of dengue cases from various parts of the country including Aligarh have been reported. Dengue is transmitted by the Aedes mosquitoes. The Aedes mosquito is a day biter and breeds mainly in the overhead tanks, desert coolers, containers, disposable cups, cold drink bottles etc. and also large unused hardware articles lying unattended on the rooftops. During monsoons season, these articles become the source of breeding of Aedes vector and thus create ideal situations for transmission of dengue.

Therefore, it is requested to take the following measures to prevent transmission of mosquitoes borne Dengue:

01. Ensure emptying of the Desert Coolers, A.C. outlet every weekend and clean them properly.
02. All the overhead tanks should be tightly covered by lid. The old tanks lying unused need to be removed to avoid collection of rain water.
03. Removal of junk materials from the rooftop, backyard of the building premises.
04. All the flower-pot trays should be cleaned every week.
05. In case of construction, do not allow stagnation of water more than a week.
06. The rooftops should be cleaned for smooth flow of water to avoid mosquito breeding.
07. Notify artificial open water collection points to health office.
08. To avoid mosquito bite, students are advised to wear full-sleeved clothing.
09. Bed nets and mosquito repellents should be used during the period July-October (Transmission period of Dengue in Aligarh).
10. Ensure proper meshwork on doors and windows of the buildings.

All concerned are requested to ensure the regular cleaning of open drains and timely removal of garbage and also create the computerized posters for generating awareness to make the University campus clean and uncontaminated.
