Quranic Studies Centre brings out a reference work on Quran

ALIGARH January 14: The K A Nizami Centre for Quranic Studies, Aligarh Muslim University has brought out a reference work on the holy Quran, "Academic Research on the Quran: A Critical Bibliography". Compiled by Mr Sajid Shaffi, a research scholar in the Department of Islamic Studies, AMU, the book provides a bibliographical and thematic study of about 500 PhD theses on the various aspects of Quran.

Mr Shaffi earlier published "21st Century Quranic Studies in English: A Bibliography" as part of the collaborative publishing between the K A Nizami Centre for Quranic Studies and Viva Books, New Delhi.

Professor Abdur Raheem Kidwai, Director of the Centre appreciated the work and said that it unravels numerous contours of Quranic Studies across the world. He said that the bibliographical work is based on more than 500 doctoral researches providing a reference arena of investigative studies classified under several reader-friendly sub-categories.
